

Planning

- Assign project manager
- Identify roles & responsibilities
- Review the Scope of Work
- Review the site environmental & technical readiness requirements
- Review the technology involved

Site Surveys

- Create & document the requirements plan inclusive of environmental conditions and de-installation location
 - Size
 - Locations
 - Security requirements
 - Site plans
 - Position of equipment

Power Down Sequence

- Review Scope of Work to reference all hardware, power and connections related to system
- All equipment is powered down or migrated correctly

De-Installation

Hardware

- Wrapping & packing of equipment for shipment or storage
- De-Installation performed in accordance to planning docs
 - Review of systems removal
- All non connected cables are removed
- Blank panels or new system installed in vacated space

Source Support Services De-Installations Program

At Source Support Services, we understand that technology is constantly evolving. Systems become outdated, companies move locations and equipment always needs upgrading. Detailed planning and quick turnaround times are required for a successful de-installation. Taking the time to find a solution without disturbing your organizations operations or customers can be costly. Source Support simplifies the de-installation process and provides a variety of options to recover value when the equipment is removed. Whether you choose to keep the system, recycle, resell, dispose or trade it in for a financial gain, Source Support provides a safe and secure solution with the utmost focus on quality.

Key Benefits for Your Customers:

The Source Support Services De-Installation Program provides solutions for enterprise companies world-wide. Key benefits of the program include:

- Trained service-delivery specialist that meets your quality standards
- Service delivery at a mutually scheduled time for end-user
- Verification that all service prerequisites are addressed in a detailed Statement of Work and met prior to service delivery
- Environmentally safe disposition of equipment back to partner
- Availability of Technical Specialist to answer questions during onsite removal of this service

For more information contact Sales

sales@sourcesupport.com
877-847-6823